Sandefur is Guest Speaker at SIWG Meeting

Misti Sandefur of Harrisburg was the featured guest speaker last week before members of the Southern Illinois Writers Guild on the John A. Logan College campus. Sandefur, who began writing short stories at the age of 8, turned her love for writing into a career when she began her own freelance writing business. To date, she has had more than 150 articles published in both print and electronic publications. She has also written several books.

The SIWG meets monthly to bring together area writers. Novice or veteran, published or unpublished, members encourage and assist each other in their creative endeavors. Meetings are held at 7 p.m. on the third Thursday of each month in Room B48, just south of the gymnasium lobby. Next meeting is June 17. There is no meeting in December. Guests are welcome. Deana Smith and John Homan serve as co-advisors.

For information about membership, visit the JALC Web site at <http://www.jalc.edu/activities/siwg/index.html>
